If you want to work as a doctor in the UK, then you'll need to be registered with the General Medical Council (GMC). PLAB exam has 2 components: PLAB 1 which is a written test, and PLAB 2 which is a practical test. Fortunately with the right preparation, PLAB is a very manageable exam and there are good pass rates which are increasing year on year. In 2024, PLAB will be replaced by the UKMLA which will be required for both UK graduates and non-EU graduates. The best first job for most international doctors starting out in the UK, is as an employed non-training junior grade doctor in an NHS hospital. MOKSH Offers Online Coaching for PLAB 1 exam.
